

window treatment

Catching the light and our gaze, curtains are a dynamic colour feature to set your palette of accent hues

Don't be scared to use colour on windows. Dark hues (above and left) absorb light and enhance privacy, creating a snug cocoon effect. Light blues, silvers and whites (right) will bounce light back into small spaces, and can be just as moody when used with a blackout backing. It's important that patterns harmonise with each other. "The golden rule is that if something has an organic print, you shouldn't be putting more flowing patterns in. Use with stripes, plains or geometrics," says Sean from Urban Interior. Bring the look together with one colour palette. Don't skimp on window treatments; it's a fabulous way to add colour.
